

Nord Pool enters Slovenia, extending its presence to 17 European markets

Oslo, 23 October 2026 – Nord Pool, a Euronext company, has launched day-ahead power trading services in Slovenia, marking its entry into its 17th European market and further expanding its presence in Central and Southeastern Europe.

Trading commenced on 21 October 2026 for delivery on 22 October. The launch follows the successful implementation of the Multi-NEMO Arrangement in Slovenia, giving local market participants greater choice in accessing day-ahead power trading services.

Expanding Nord Pool's presence across Europe

The launch follows extensive preparation and onboarding with customers and market participants, enabling Slovenian participants to access Nord Pool's Day-Ahead market through its established trading infrastructure and services. For customers active across multiple European markets, Nord Pool provides access through a single marketplace, helping simplify participation and trading across different countries.

Located at the crossroads of Central and Southeastern Europe, Slovenia is part of an interconnected regional electricity market. The introduction of multiple power exchanges gives local participants greater choice in accessing trading services and contributes to the continued development of competitive European electricity markets.

Nord Pool's pan-European presence reflects its experience operating across different market structures. In addition to operating as a nominated electricity market operator, the company provides trading technology and market services to local power exchanges, extending its expertise across a diverse range of European markets.

"Launching day-ahead trading in Slovenia is an important step in our European expansion and gives market participants greater choice in how they access electricity markets. Building on more than 30 years of experience, we bring established trading expertise and infrastructure to Slovenia, while continuing to support the development of efficient, transparent and competitive electricity markets across Europe.”

Tom Darell, CEO of Nord Pool

The launch in Slovenia is another step in delivering Euronext’s Innovate for Growth 2027 strategy, which aims to strengthen the Group’s position in European energy markets by expanding Nord Pool’s services and geographic reach. Alongside Nord Pool’s continued expansion in physical power markets across Europe, the Group launched Euronext Nord Pool Power Futures earlier this year and plans to extend its derivatives offering to additional European markets, starting with Germany in April 2027.

Together, these initiatives combine Nord Pool’s expertise and presence in physical power markets with Euronext’s trading and clearing capabilities for power derivatives, supporting the development of an integrated European energy offering and reinforcing Euronext’s position in European market infrastructure.

About Nord Pool

Nord Pool is the world’s first multinational power exchange and a leading European electricity market operator. Established in 1996 following the creation of the first cross-border power market between Norway and Sweden, Nord Pool has played a pioneering role in the development of competitive and transparent electricity markets in Europe.

Nord Pool comprises a commercial power exchange function, Nord Pool, and a Market Coupling Operator function, Nord Pool European Market Coupling Operator. The company supports efficient price formation and cross-border electricity trading, contributing to the integration of renewable energy and the development of the European energy market.
